

ADVANTAGE TO THE OPERATORS

Force The Miners' President To Accept Terms
In Order To Save The Union.

A SENSATIONAL STORY IS PUBLIC

Mitchell Is Said To Have Agreed To Close Anthracite
Mines Under Threat Of Bituminous Miners
To Stop Collections.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburg, Pa., March 5.—President John Mitchell and the bituminous operators have practically completed a deal by which the president of the miners agrees to force a strike in the anthracite region. Unless he brings about such a state of affairs he cannot hope to effect any arrangement for an advance for the miners in the competitive soft coal region.

If he does not do it, the soft coal operators will refuse to continue the "check-off" system for collecting the dues of the mines to the union, and this would rob the United Mine Workers of their greatest financial strength.

Operators Are Pleased.

Independent operators are feeling elated here since the word has been passed around that a hard coal strike is practically assured. They hope to do something towards breaking into the eastern market if such a struggle is brought about. Mitchell and President Francis L. Robbins, the leader of the soft coal operators, have held several conferences, and Mitchell is said to have agreed finally to the demands made by Robbins.

Robbins is determined that the hard coal operators shall be forced to come to terms with the miners or their mines shall be closed. If they should close, the way will be open for the soft coal operators to consider the advance demanded by the miners, and there is little doubt but they would be able to get a better scale.

Ultimatum to Mitchell.

"Make the anthracite men come to the mark or close their mines, and we will deal with you. If you don't, we may deal with you, anyway, on the advance, but we will stop the "check-off," and you know what that will mean," was the cold way in which the proposition was handed to John Mitchell within the last seventy-two hours by Robbins or his personal representative; and it has made Mitchell think.

Mitchell and others know what the abolishment of the check-off by the bituminous operators would mean. It would kill the miners' union. The check-off is toll collected from the miners' pay by the operators for the United Mine Workers. This is the only way in which the union is kept up. All admit that, if left to the miners themselves, the dues would never be paid, and the threat to stop this collecting, or "holding out," from the miners' pay has had its effect.

Would Ruin the Union.

The anthracite operators are not bothered with the check-off, and that is the reason, according to the people here, that the collections do not come in from the miners there.

With the operators in the bituminous field refusing longer to collect dues for the union before the miners are paid, the United Mine Workers would soon go down. This is what has been threatened unless something is done by the union to the anthracite mines.

The move is to boost bituminous prices and get into the Eastern market, long controlled by the anthracite people, once their mines are closed in strike. It is claimed, the proposition of the bituminous operators has been as good as accomplished, and that the anthracite strike may be considered a certainty.

France Receives Confirmation of the Destruction of Pacific Islands.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, March 5.—The minister of the colonies has received a cablegram confirming the press reports to the effect that the French establishment at Oceania was devastated by a cyclone and tidal wave on February 7 and 8. Tahiti is particularly affected. Three hundred and twenty-seven houses at Hapetea were destroyed and the governor of the colony has asked for aid.

The telegram which was sent by the governor of Oceania adds that only one life was lost as the result of the cyclone and tidal wave.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 5.—By the unanimous consent the house today authorized printed in the congressional record the memorial address of George D. Perkins at the funeral of the late Speaker Henderson. The memorial was presented by Mr. Lacey of Iowa, who characterized it as beautiful and historical in character.

Representative Nicholas Longworth returned to his duties in the house today. He presented Speaker Cannon with a huge cigar, at least 18 inches long, the product of Havana, Cuba. The house passed the bill increasing from fifty thousand to two hundred thousand dollars for the purchase of metals for pennies and nickels. The house also passed the senate bill providing for a delegate in congress from Alaska.

Damage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Meridian, Miss., March 5.—The list of casualties as a result of Friday's tornado remains unchanged at 23 dead and 45 injured. The suffering among the poorer classes has been found to be greater than was at first supposed. Several thousand carpenters went to work today rebuilding and repairing in the destroyed districts. The general relief committee has resolved to accept contributions from whatever source, the requirements being such that outside financial aid will of necessity be required.

JUDGE SCORES THE RICH MAN

Rockefeller And His Kind Are Denounced By A New York City Justice.

THEY SHOW CONTEMPT FOR THE LAW

Member Of The New York Supreme Court Holds Them A Real Menace To The Government By Their Acts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 5.—Before the People's Forum in New Rochelle Sunday, William J. Gaynor, justice of the supreme court of Brooklyn, delivered a remarkable address on the failure of government in the nation, state, and city, to enforce the laws for the people against the corporations.

Justice Gaynor intimated broadly that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company could be made to do its duty or lose its franchise. He said outright that there is a remedy for the exactions of the gas trust, and authority in law to force the Ryan-Belmont traction monopoly to carry out its obligations to the people.

The justice, depicting John D. Rockefeller as a fugitive from a subpoena server, said:

Real Anarchist.

"Rockefeller and his kind are the real anarchists and if not checked will destroy our government."

There was a long wave of applause for the jurist's denunciation of rebates. He said this practice by the railroads was "the most criminal chapter in our history."

Justice Gaynor denounced rebates and discriminations in freight rates by the railroads. He called them gross wrongs. "The extent," said he, "to which these corporations have violated the duty and the law of their being by carrying freight for some at a lower rate than exacted by their rivals in the same line of business, so much lower as to enable them to undermine and thereby ruin such rivals and drive them out of business and establish a monopoly themselves, forms the most criminal chapter in our history."

"That the public highways of the country by law are open to the use and service of all on exactly equal terms should be used to aggrandize some and destroy others is so infamous and so heartless that we shall be looked back upon as a generation lost to all moral sense for having suffered it to exist and go on so long."

Greatest Evil of All.

"It has crushed and beggared thousands; all over the land, it has been the means of creating and fostering trusts and monopolies. This freight favoritism is the mother of the trusts. The first greatest trust—namely, the oil trust—was created and maintained by means of it. That is true of all our trusts and monopolies. When one man's oil is carried to market at $1 a barrel, while his rivals have to pay $2, nothing is left them but to quit; that is the end of rivalry."

Justice Gaynor said his own idea was that the government should appoint a general freight agent for every railroad in the country, and in that way see that no discrimination whatever was given in freight rates. He deprecated referring disputes over rates to the courts, on account of the delay. "One ounce of executive prevention," he said, "is worth a pound of cure. The rebate evil needs summary executive treatment."

TO USE PHILIPPINE SCOUTS SHOULD WAR WITH CHINA ENSUE

United States Has Efficient Troops
Near at Hand if Hostilities
Break Out Between Americans and Celestials.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—The War Department has under consideration a suggestion to employ the Philippine scouts should there be any occasion to use troops in China. There are now about 5,000 of these scouts distributed through the archipelago, and some of the army officers here who have commanded them in the Philippines are strongly of the opinion that, properly officered by Americans, these Philippine scouts would be admirably suited for Chinese service if any United States forces were ever needed there. It is recalled that the Spaniards employed Philippine scouts with great success in the combined operations in Coochin, China, which resulted in the French acquisition of Tonquin. Points urged in favor of that scheme are: First, economy, for the scouts are much cheaper to maintain in the service than American troops, drawing less pay and subsisting on a much less expensive ration; and, secondly, they are really of little use at present and might not be depended upon to fire upon their own people in case of insurrection; hence they may be replaced by white troops.

Troops For Orient.

San Francisco, Cal., March 5.—With the hope that they may be called upon to perform active service in China, the Eight United States Infantry regiments are today on the transport Logan. Not a man of the command believes that his destination is really China and that he will have to see his native land again he will have had his fill of fighting. The soldiers expect when they reach Honolulu that they will receive cable instructions bidding them to keep on to China. Captain Taggart, of Wooster divorce fame, is among the officers sailing on the Logan.

New York, March 5.—A decision on the question whether H. H. Rogers shall be compelled to answer questions asked of him in the Missouri oil case hearing was postponed today until March 26. Justice Gildersleeve, who heard the argument, directed the adjournment to await a final decision in the Missouri courts relative to a similar case.

PLAN FREEZE OUT OF THE TOBACCO CHEWS

Trust Is Fighting the Independent Scrap Tobacco Plug Chewing Companies.

Washington, D. C., March 5.—Advices from Cincinnati, Ohio, are to the effect that if the American Tobacco Company continues to raise the price of raw material and cut the price of the finished scrap chewing tobacco, the independent scrap tobacco manufacturers will be driven out of business and the company will have complete control of the entire tobacco industry. In Cincinnati alone this will put out of business independent concerns worth at least eight million dollars. The latest move of the company is said to have been the raising of the price of cigar cuttings to twenty-one cents a pound, when three months ago they were selling as low as eight cents. Since cigar cuttings is the only tobacco that can be used in the manufacture of scrap chewing tobacco, the independents must pay the trust's prices. The revenue tax on scrap tobacco is six cents a pound. It costs from three to five cents to manufacture, making the total cost thirty cents a pound. It is alleged the American Tobacco Company is now selling its for twenty-four cents, a loss of from six to eight cents on every pound.

The Cincinnati "Independents" have reduced the size of their five-cent packages from three to two, and one-half ounces, whereas the trust maintains its three ounce packages. The only thing now left to the independents is a further reduction in the size of the five-cent package from two and one-half to one and two-thirds ounces. If the public will not submit to this reduction then the independents will be compelled to acknowledge their defeat.

WOMEN'S TECHNICAL INSTITUTE OPENED

Is a Department in Education, and
Was Founded by Andrew Carnegie.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 5.—The Margaret Morrison Carnegie technical school was opened to women today for those who wish to prepare for the regular course, which will begin in September. The opening of this school is something new in the history of education of women along practical lines. Everything that a woman finds to do will be taught in the institution. If she wishes to be matron or manager in a home institution, in a hotel or a club, she will be scientifically taught the details of such work. Record and filing, clerks for factories will learn how to keep their accounts. There are to be special courses for stenographers and secretaries, and in one department girls will be taught to design and make shirt waists, cloaks, and suits. To enter the school a girl must be at least 16 years of age and must pass an examination or present certificate from a preparatory or high school. No student will be accepted who does not give evidence of aptitude for technical work. The fees are simply nominal. There is one department of the school that particularly interested Mr. Carnegie, the founder, and was specified by him as the one which he had nearest at heart, and that is the course that gives training in domestic science and the hygiene of the home.

—FORTY YEARS AGO—

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, March 5, 1866.—About Town.—The Young Men's Association has received word that Frederick Douglass, the talented orator, will be able to lecture for them one evening, probably about the 23d inst.

Some half dozen persons were baptized yesterday in the river below the lower bridge.

Has There Been a Murder Committed?—The old adage that "murder will out" had fresh illustration in this city yesterday. It was authoritatively stated long ago that what was done in secret should be proclaimed from the housetops, or what in these modern days amounts to the same thing, be printed in the newspapers, and so we will have a little story to tell. A few days ago, there arrived in this city an ordinary looking trunk, belonging to a young man of this city, and was lodged for the time being in the baggage room for safe keeping. On Saturday night, an exceedingly offensive stench assailed the olfactory nerves of those who had business at the depot, and in hunting about for the cause, there, it was finally agreed that the bad odor proceeded from the trunk aforesaid, whereupon the railroad officials, assisted by sundry other persons, opened the trunk and found the remains of a human being cut up in small pieces and in an advanced state of decomposition. As the owner of the trunk is well known in this city, the discovery created no little excitement. What business had he with these secret remains? When did he get them and how? Who was the dead person and under what circumstances did he die? Had a foul murder been committed and this way taken to get rid of the corpse?

A Correction.—Editors Gazette: In your edition of Saturday last I find my name appended to an official report of the proceedings of a meeting of "National Republicans" held in the Court Room on Friday, the 2d inst. Now the call under which the meeting was held said thus, to wit: "Administration Meeting."

"All persons in favor of supporting the reconstruction policy of Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson are invited to meet at the Court Room on Friday evening, etc., etc."

Under this call I attended the meeting and had the honor to be appointed one of its secretaries. The record of that meeting was not made up by me. Neither did it come under my observations until I saw it in the Gazette. While I am not a professional politician, and hence need not be over sensitive in regard to the matter; nevertheless, inasmuch as I am not a Republican, I prefer not to be so. Please make the correction and much obliged. J. B. WHITING.

THE LINGERIE HAT'S SUCCESS

There is no let-up in the success of the lingerie hat, and assuredly there has seldom been anything so universally becoming to each and every one of the varying types of childhood. Those of the new season lean more to ribbon trimmings than their predecessors, and the little bunches of daisies, poppies, buttercups and other simple flowers deemed suitable for the little girl's wear are now replaced by broad and sparkling bows, by rosettes and by wreaths of ribbon deftly wired to flower shapes. Sheer handkerchief linen and hand embroidered lace go to make the charm of the example pictured. The crown is of the puff tam or shantung order, and the brim is merely a straight ruffle, hand embroidered, and shirred so that it falls in pretty undulating folds. Underneath there are three ruffles of handkerchief linen, each with an edge of real Valenciennes whipped on, and both the rosettes and hair ribbon are in a soft white satin ribbon.

TEN THOUSAND PERSONS DEAD

Hurricane Sweeps Tuamotu Islands in the Society Group.

REFUGE IN COCONUT TREES

Mammoth Waves Compel the Inhabitants to Seek Shelter in the Branches—Many Islands Have Disappeared in the Ocean.

San Francisco, Cal., March 5.—News reached this city Saturday of a disaster in the Society and Tuamotu islands which is said to have resulted in the death of 10,000 persons. On Feb. 7 a hurricane of gigantic proportions broke over the islands and lagoons and it did not expend its force until the next day.

Mammoth waves swept over the land, tossing ships about like egg shells and driving the populace into the tall coconut trees. Property damage estimated at $5,000,000 was wrought.

Many of the islands of the two groups are said to have disappeared completely beneath the surface of the ocean, and others have been swept so clean by wind and wave that not a vestige of life appears upon them.

One City Escapes.

The only detailed account of the catastrophe that has emanated from any of the islands comes from the city of Papeete, on the island of Tahiti, which evidently escaped, more fortunately than its neighbors. This account was brought by the officers of the steamship Mariposa, who, however, were unable to furnish facts from other places than Papeete and its immediate vicinity.

The city of Papeete was inundated and about seventy-five buildings destroyed, including the American consulate and the French government building. The shipping in the harbor of Papeete escaped injury owing to the direction of the wind, but it is feared that many vessels which were cruising near the Tuamotu islands were lost.

Waves Sixty-Five Feet High.

It is believed that there was heavy loss of life in the lagoons of Tuamotu islands, though the death of the guardian of the quarantine station in Papeete was the only fatality reported up to the time the Mariposa sailed.

The schooner Papeete was submerged for an hour near Anaa, Tuamotu. Her captain, Philip Michaceli, estimated that the waves were sixty-five feet high. It was impossible to see twenty feet away. Even in the daytime the sailors had to be lashed to the vessel.

M. Marcardi, a French resident at Papeete, Tuamotu islands, abandoned the place in a small cutter after all the government buildings and dwelling houses, and the Catholic church were swept away. Many of the natives climbed coconut trees, and others put out to sea in small boats. The schooner Ina, which was anchored in the lagoon at Makemo, successfully rode out the storm. Makemo was badly washed.

Many narrow escapes from drowning have been reported.

Damages, Bridges and Roads.

Bridges and roads were badly damaged on the island of Tahiti. Bread fruit, coconut, banana, and plantain trees were blown down in great numbers, which will result in hardships to the natives, and materially affect commerce during the next two or three years.

The French gunboat Zelee has gone to the Tuamotu islands with supplies of food and fresh water.

The cyclone, or hurricane, reached the velocity of 120 miles an hour. It struck the islands about midnight on Feb. 7 and continued until about 4 o'clock on the next afternoon. The island of Anaa, Tuamotu group, is believed to have been the center of the storm.

At Papeete about 7 o'clock on the evening of Feb. 7 the sea began to break heavily over the reef, the waves in the harbor washed over the quay. There was no perceptible wind. Toward 10 o'clock people dwelling in the vicinity of the water front were compelled to abandon their homes, saving as a rule only a small portion of their belongings.

The merchants and clerks went to the stores and warehouses only to discover that it was quite impossible to save goods on the lower floors. An hour later high seas broke, completely demolishing the government slip and buildings, besides causing great damage to the coal sheds.

Rescues Many From Death.

The guardian of the arsenal, Teller Adams, an expert swimmer, was in the water for many hours, and assisted in warning and rescuing others.

The village of Taronia, near the arsenal, was completely swept away. It consisted of the mission buildings and homes of native converts of the reorganized Latter Day Saints' mission, formerly under the direction of Capt. Joseph Burton of California. The mission house, and a great many houses were carried off to a distance of many hundreds of yards and demolished.

Of the church edifice not a vestige remains. A settlement about an eighth of a mile distant, comprised of dwellings of several hundred Cook Islanders (British subjects), was completely destroyed.

CATARRH THE PLAGUE OF WINTER

Every Catarrh sufferer dreads the return of cold weather, for at the first cold breath of the season this plague of Winter is fanned into life with all its miserable symptoms. The nostrils are stopped up, and a constant dropping of mucus back into the throat keeps up a continual hawking and spitting, the patient has dull headaches, ringing noises in the ears and a half sick, depressed feeling all the time. Every inner lining and tissue of the body becomes inflamed, and secretes an unhealthy matter which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and the disease becomes constitutional. The catarrhal poison brings on stomach troubles, affects the Kidneys and Bladder, attacks the soft bones of the throat and head and if not checked leads to Consumption. A disease so deep-seated and dangerous cannot be washed out, neither can it be smoked away. Sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are useless, because they only reach the membranes and tissues, while the real cause of the disease is in the blood. S. S. S. cures Catarrh because it attacks it through the blood; it goes into the circulation and drives out all unhealthy accumulations and catarrhal matter, and when this is done every part of the system receives a supply of rich, pure blood. Then the inflamed membranes and tissues heal, all discharge ceases, the depressed feeling of the body is relieved, and every symptom passes away. S. S. S. goes to the very root of the trouble, and by purifying and enriching the blood and building up the entire system, cures Catarrh permanently. If you have Catarrh do not waste time with local remedies, but begin S. S. S. and write for our book and any medical advice without charge.

KILLED BY SWEETHEART'S KISS

Girl Contracts Tonsillitis and Dies on Eve of Wedding Day.

South Bend, Ind., March 3.—On the eve of the day set for her wedding, Miss Elvira Jackson, aged 20, is dead at her country home near Huron, Mich., having contracted tonsillitis by kissing her fiancé, J. Arthur Frazer, who had been ill from the disease for several days. Miss Jackson was stricken shortly after kissing Frazer, and her condition became so serious that she was taken to a hospital. An affection of the heart developed shortly afterward and the end soon came. Frazer did not leave her bedside until after her death, and is now in a serious condition from the shock.

RAISED $15,000 DEBT IN A DAY

CARGILL METHODIST CHURCH
DEDICATED YESTERDAY.

PERSUASION OF J. W. POWELL

Was Powerful Factor in Bringing About Hoped-For Result—
Rev. Plantz' Sermon.

Joseph W. Powell of Buffalo, business evangelist and master of the art of persuasion, had raised the $15,000 subscriptions necessary to lift the debt on the new Cargill Memorial Methodist Episcopal church before he laid down his oratorical hammer and tongue about ten o'clock last evening and told the multitude that he had not meant all the sarcastic things he had said—that it was just his way of doing business. The entire property represents a valuation of $55,000. W. W. Cargill of La Crosse contributed $10,000; the sale of the old church properties netted the congregation a considerable sum; $5,000 had been raised before the advent of Mr. Powell; so that about $13,000 was needed to pay the balance due on the edifice; itself, and the new organ. Besides these amounts $1,000 was required to pay for installing the organ; there was a debt of $1,000 on the parsonage; and $400 was needed for installing new cement walks around the building. All these needs are covered by the subscriptions which are to be paid within three years' time. When the work was completed the formal dedication took place. Rev. Milton S. Terry of Evanston, Rev. Samuel Plantz of Appleton, Rev. W. W. Stevens of Kenosha, and Rev. James H. Tippet of Janesville, the directors and stewards of the church, Miss Agèle B. Medlar, vocalist, and the Brotherhood of St. Paul quartette participating in the impressive service. Congratulatory remarks were made by all of the ministers and the rejoicing was general when, at twenty minutes to eleven, the great congregation of the evening began to disintegrate and disperse.

Powell's Effective Methods
"No congratulations until all the pledges are in," is Joseph W. Powell's scheme of things. In his addresses he conveys by implication, suggestion, or frank statement the impressions that his hearers have done nothing noteworthy in building hood—the virtue of reaching out a helping hand to those in distress and in the end he organized a branch of the Brotherhood of St. Paul with 154 members.

Rev. Plantz' Sermon

Rev. Samuel Plantz, D. D., L. L. D., president of Lawrence University at Appleton, delivered a strong sermon in the evening on the church and what it stands for. It was to be regarded, he said, not simply as an evangelizing agency, but also as a teacher of the truth. It has stimulated the genius of all generations. This church stands as a witness to a certain type of truth, a consistent theory of life and conception of the universe, and interpretation of man and of God. No Plato, no Kant, no Hegel has ever developed such a consistent theory of life as is found in the Scriptures. When the daughter of Prof. Debel, the learned German materialist who had undertaken the undermining of the Christian religion, lay dying she called upon him to tell whether there was a God and an after life. And when he answered that he did not know, and she in her agony had told him that she must know at once, he fell on his knees and prayed for revelation and understanding. This shows the need of the human heart and the insufficiency of philosophy. The Christian church is the great ethical teacher in the community. Schools and libraries perform similar functions indirectly, but we have no other institution which directly and essentially deals with the lines of true conduct—how to live. The great nations of the world have failed, not so

a handsome new church and that their contributions thus far have been very meagre compared with those made elsewhere. He begins by emphasizing the soundness of the doctrine inculcated by his good old mother; that no one should leave the church before the benediction. After that if anyone makes a move to depart he interrupts his discourse to ask pointedly if the unfortunate offender is going out to look after the hitching of his horse and adds meaningfully that people have been going out in unusual numbers for this purpose at this particular interval in the services; all day. One tenth of every dollar earned belongs to God and the first ten cents, too—not the last. Fifteen new houses of worship are built between sunrise and sunset every day and the speaker himself raises a million dollars a year for the Methodist denomination. Why, a congregation in Chicago to whom he talked two weeks ago arose and placed $23,000 on the altar without a whimper about what had been paid in before. "Some men will spend several dollars for tobacco or the theatre each week and then refuse to pay twenty-five cents towards the minister's salary. They pray: 'Oh Lord, bless the church and don't let it cost me a nickel! Oh Lord, keep the young people in nights, but if it's going to cost me a cent let them go to the devil.' Here's a man who wants to give $3. We can't pay for the church that way, I tell you. There'll be a mortgage on it and the Ladies' Aid society will be cutting ham for forty years." However, Mr. Powell by no means devotes all of his time to this sort of hectoring and badinage. Last evening he spoke eloquently on the beauties of brotherly. Our life is not all on the sunny side of the street. There is trouble and perplexity. Disappointment comes to many where appointment comes to few. The streams of human suffering flow through the land and sooner or later all homes are tributary. The church stands to teach men how to get rid of sin; to point the way to redemption; to prepare men not only for the life here, but for the one that is to follow.

Rev. Milton S. Terry's Sermon
Rev. Milton S. Terry delivered an eloquent sermon at the morning service, elaborating the gradual steps by which according to the divine plan, man is to be ushered into the glorious vision prepared for him. No man shall see God's face and live, but as he passed through this world he may so ripen in experience that the passing in the next will be no great change. In conclusion the speaker urged his hearers to "stand fast in the liberty wherein Christ has set you free."

NO BIG FLOOD THIS SUMMER?

TWO FRESHETS HAVE ALREADY TAKEN AWAY MUCH WATER.

RIVER VERY HIGH SATURDAY

Nine Inches Above Stage of a Year Ago—Eleven Below March 15 Mark of 1905.

Two freshets have already taken down much of the water which usually fills the bed of Rock river later on in the spring and it is the belief of some that the source of the usual spring having been partially exhausted, there will be no extremely high stage of water attained this year. This is necessarily based on the supposition that the snow existed in about the same quantity this winter as last and that there will be no serious rain storms. But reports from the north are to the effect that the snow still lies deep on the ground and that the two thaws have done little to reduce the unusually large amount that fell this winter. Furthermore the season has started out "rainy" and may continue in such a course.

Ice Came Down.
The last freshet occurred on Friday and Saturday and though the water is still very high it is gradually receding. The rain of Friday helped in raising the level of the water and broke up the ice in Lake Koshkonong. The ice passed down the river Saturday afternoon and evening. Regarding the stage of the water Dr. William Horne reports that the river rose sixteen inches during Friday night and continued to rise until Saturday noon: the height reached was nine inches above the stage of water a year ago, but eleven inches below the level of March 15, 1905. Though this freshet brought many visitors to the dam it caused no damage to Janesville or to speak of few basements or cellars having water at all in them.

Beloit Cellars Flooded.
However, many cellars in Beloit were flooded. The water at that point was close to the high mark of last year's flood, but no portion of the city was submerged as it was a year ago. The explanation of this is found in the fact that Turtle Creek was not high. This stream emptied of ice some time ago and is now affected only by the rain or snow. Last year it was filled with ice up to the time of the flood and when it was unable to discharge the ice and a surplus of water, being blocked by bridges and back water from the river, it flooded a part of the city. At Sterling, Ill., an ice gorge formed two weeks ago and bridges were swept away, thousands of dollars of damage done property and business was suspended for a time.

EIGHT CLUBS WILL FORM STATE LEAGUE

State League Promises To Be a Strong Organization This Year—Janesville Not In.

The circuit for the Wisconsin State Baseball league for the season of 1906 has practically been determined during the past week, and Janesville is out of it, although it remains to be acted on officially at a meeting of the league called for March 18. Incidentally it has also been settled that the league organization will continue. Last season was an experiment but it was a success on the whole and there is no talk of discontinuing the league, in spite of the unexpected withdrawal of the Beloit club. President Powers has announced the following cities as the probable circuit for 1906: La Crosse, Freeport, Madison, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Wausau and Stevens Point or Eau Claire. There is some difference of opinion whether to admit Eau Claire as the eighth club, La Crosse favoring Eau Claire, but several of the other clubs preferring Stevens Point, which, though smaller, is more central. In the five cities which belonged to the league last year and will remain next season preparations for getting the 1906 teams are proceeding rapidly. The three new cities, Fond du Lac, Madison, and Stevens Point, have always been good baseball towns and are expected to draw well. The La Crosse state league team has already signed six pitchers. Not more than four will be carried and the others will probably be turned over to some of the new clubs. At Madison leading business men are backing the club. Applications are pouring in from players from all over the country. A good manager will be secured early and the matter of selecting the team left to him. The committee now in charge at Madison consists of the following business men: E. E. Heath, Nels A. Ladd, George Sturm, Joseph Golinusch, J. B. Cantwell, and E. G. Farlin. If Stevens Point enters the league it is expected that George Ramsey, captain of the La Crosse club in the early part of last season, will be manager or captain. Ramsey is now living at Stevens Point.

CANADA WOULD CONTROL NORTH

Authorities Collect Customs in Lands Discovered by Americans.

WANTS THE LABRADOR COAST.

Effort Is Being Made to Have Newfoundland Government Cede Title So as to Give Outlet for New Territory of Ungava.

Washington, March 5.—American arctic explorers by giving such names as Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Roosevelt and Peary to lands lying north and east of Hudson Bay have laid the foundation for a controversy with Canada which soon will assume important proportions.

American whalers visit the waters adjacent to the territory discovered by American explorers and American capital for some time has been exploiting iron and other mines there. The Canadian government is asserting jurisdiction, and through the Northwest Mounted police have been collecting customs duties from the Americans. They have erected at various points along the coast of the disputed territory wooden houses from which fly the British flag bearing the word "Canada." Thus far no formal protests have been made by this government, but a strong case is being prepared at the state department.

Newfoundland is involved. To strengthen her control over Hudson Bay and Hudson Strait, Canada is seeking to acquire possession of all the Labrador coast. In this way the Dominion is working to provide an outlet for the traffic of the new province of Ungava and to establish a wheat route from Hudson Bay through Hudson Strait to Liverpool. Newfoundland necessarily will be dragged into the controversy because protests have been made by this government on the Labrador coast is involved.

By the treaty of 1763 with France England acquired territory which extended her domain from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. The whole coast of Labrador from the St. John's river to the entrance of Hudson Strait was placed under the jurisdiction of Newfoundland. Ultimately, however, Newfoundland's jurisdiction was confined to a strip of territory from the Straits of Belle Isle north to the fifty-second degree of latitude and east to the ocean. Canada and Newfoundland are now endeavoring to ascertain how far inland this strip of coast extends.

Customs Collections. The vast wilderness between the eastern boundary of the Province of Quebec and the vaguely defined boundary of the portion of Labrador ruled by Newfoundland in 1897 was created by the Dominion government as an unorganized Canadian territory known as Ungava. The government of Newfoundland is, however, collecting customs duties and selling timber within Ungava, thus clashing with the Canadian claim.

The United States is interested in the controversy by virtue of article 1 of the convention of 1818 with England, which allows Americans to fish and cure fish of any kind on the coast.

bays, harbors and creeks from Ming Joy on the south coast of Labrador through the Straits of Belle Isle and thence northwardly indefinitely along the coast of Labrador. Canada is seeking to acquire possession of all the Labrador coast.

America Has Whip Hand. Should she succeed in acquiring it from Newfoundland the United States will press the Labrador rights of American fishermen to the full. Curiously enough it is on the strength of other provisions of article 1 of the convention of 1818 that Canada refuses to permit American fishermen to land on her North Atlantic coast for any purpose except the four named—that is, for wood, water, shelter or repairs. American fishermen are not permitted to enter the ports to ship local crews or to purchase supplies or to transship their catch in hand to Canadian railways or to steamers bound for the United States.

Secretary of State Root recently cruised along the Labrador coast and is now prepared to use the treaty rights of Americans on that coast as a lever for compelling Canada to treat American fishermen in a more neighborly fashion on the coasts of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. With an assertion of American sovereignty over the lands north and east of Hudson Bay, discovered by American explorers, the United States government will be able to force important concessions from Canada.

ABUSES MAIL FRANK. Postal Chief Puts Damper on Work of Reform Association. Washington, March 5.—Postmaster General Cortelyou has put an end to a flagrant misuse of the franking privilege masquerading under the name of reform. The International Reform Bureau of this city is the institution which attention was called last summer to the fact that this bureau, which is styled "the first Christian lobby" by its superintendent, Rev. William F. Crafts, was sending out under the frank of Representative Gillette of Massachusetts numerous copies of a book entitled "Patriotic Studies," which was nothing more nor less than an advertisement for the bureau. For several years the bureau has been active in support of so-called reform legislation, including the abolition of the caucuses in the army and navy, while it has constantly inveighed against horse racing, the liquor traffic and kindred issues. Mr. Crafts has been a familiar figure around committee rooms and succeeded in having printed in committee hearings no end of matter exploiting his own work and views. "Patriotic Studies" was made up by reprinting these hearings, with extracts from speeches and congressional documents. The volumes were sent out under Representative Gillette's frank, marked "Part of the Congressional Record." With every book was sent also a letter under regular postage stating that if the recipient chose to keep the book he or she might send 35 cents "for the good of the cause" to the bureau. Otherwise the recipient should return the book under a frank which was inclosed with it. The third assistant postmaster general rendered a ruling adverse to Mr. Crafts and he appealed to Postmaster General Cortelyou, who decides that the book is not "a public document printed by order of Congress" and is not under the law entitled to "transmission in the mails free of postage under a frank of a member of Congress."

Cut in Naval Appropriations. Washington, March 5.—Because of an absence of team work between the Navy Department and Congress this session, which is peculiarly advantageous for wise naval legislation, promises to go by with little accomplished. The House committee on naval affairs is dissatisfied because Secretary Bonaparte sent in estimates for $120,000,000 of appropriations for the year 1906-1907 when the condition of the revenue does not permit such an appropriation for the sea power. Already the subcommittee on appropriations of the naval committee has cut $20,000,000 out of the total. Members of the committee say they dislike to do this; that it would have been better for the department to have applied the knife before the estimates were sent to the capitol. Secretary Taft sent in estimates this year for less than was appropriated last. The military bill for which those estimates were material has now passed the House.

Pike's Peak Centenary. Washington, March 5.—Vice Chairman Wray of the Colorado Springs Association, which is preparing to celebrate, Sept. 25, the centenary of the discovery of Pike's Peak by Captain Zebulon M. Pike, has made arrangements for the participation in the ceremonies of a large detachment of troops and of representatives of the various tribes of Indians that inhabited the region at the time of Pike's visit in 1806.

Aid to American Trade. Washington, March 5.—Russia's renewed attempt to establish a permanent foothold in northern Manchuria by making Vladivostok the port of entry, thereby offsetting the loss of Dalny and Port Arthur, is described in an official report from a State Department agent in China. The report expresses the belief that this will wound the development of American trade, and will result in a curtailment of the importance of Shanghai as a distributing point.

Longworths Return. Washington, March 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth arrived in Washington over the Southern railroad at 9:30 Sunday morning from their honeymoon trip to Cuba. They were the last passengers to leave the train, and thinking they had changed their plans, many of the curious people who had waited their coming grew restless and left before they emerged from the car.

MAKE PLANS FOR SUMMER'S WORK

For the department of manual training for teachers which attracted so much attention last summer, will be added this year instruction in relation to design. Professor Burch of the Western Illinois Normal School, who had charge of the department last year, will again direct this work, and will be assisted by Assistant Professor Lake of the University of Illinois, who will give courses in art work for elementary and high schools, and in free-hand drawing. The course in manual training for elementary schools includes a study of the history, organization and installation of manual training, together with a consideration of its relation to the curriculum. Practice includes everything from weaving, basketry and clay modeling to bench work and bent iron work. In the high school course mechanical drawing and shop work constitute the major portion of the course. The new department of art and design under Professor Lake consists in the theory and practice of drawing for public schools, and lectures and practice in free-hand drawing as applied to regular drawing work of the school, and to blackboard design and outdoor sketching.

Educational Theories. For teachers and others interested in the general problems of education there will be courses in the history of education, school administration and supervision by Professor Elliott, Professor Tressler, university inspector of high schools, will give an interesting course on recent tendencies and current problems in high school organization and management, and Dr. Dearborn will have charge of the work in educational psychology.

History and Economics. The departments of history, political science and political economy offer unusually interesting programs with courses by both the members of the university faculty and special lecturers. The courses in American history will be in charge of Professor T. K. Urdahl of Colorado college, with Professor Barchell of the commerce course will lecture on such timely subjects as the origin and development of the trust movement in Europe, including the American Standard Oil company and the consolidated banking institutions; custom and competition; the administration of financial institutions of Wall street, including commercial and savings banks, building and loan associations, and trust and insurance companies; the organization and management of manufacturing industries; and the history of economic thought. Professor Rehnisch and Professor Huberich of Leland Stanford Jr. university will present some of the problems of political science. Professor Rehnisch will give a course on the civilization and government of Japan, and a series of public lectures on the great oriental religions: Mohammedanism, Brahmanism, Buddhism, Confucianism and Shinto. He will also conduct a course and a seminar in international law. The government of France and American constitutional law with particular reference to the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution are to be the subjects of Professor Huberich's courses.

Lecture in Literature. For students of ancient and modern languages and literatures, as well as for teachers of these subjects, the summer session program offers considerable interest. Professor Henry R. Fairclough, head of the department of Latin in Leland Stanford Jr. university, and Professor Showerman are to have charge of the Latin work. Professor Fairclough will deliver a series of twelve lectures on Latin literature, while Professor Showerman offers twelve illustrated lectures on historic sites of Greece and Italy of historical, literary and artistic interest. In the English department Professor Pyre will give readings from modern English poetry, and Professor Lathrop will discuss the modern novel. There will also be courses in German, French, Spanish and Italian.

Physical Training for Teachers. Normal courses in gymnastics for both men and women will be conducted by Professor Elsom and Professor Abby Mayhew, including instruction in heavy and light gymnastics, swimming, and the theory of physical education in schools and colleges.

Sporting World Gossip

Three Fast Trotters Matched—Chicago Power Boat Club Affairs. Walter J. Travis Wants Golf Title Again. Duffey Goes to Law.

A match was made recently in New York by representatives of their owners, to race three of the fastest trotters in the world on a track still to be nominated on some date between July 1 and July 20 next. The horses are Tiverton, 2:04½, owned by John Howell of New York; Sweet Marie, 2:04½, owned by A. P. MacDonald of Albany, and Westworth, 2:04½, owned by Thomas Devlin of Philadelphia. They are regarded as the greatest harness race performers in the world. The conditions of the match are a sweepstakes of $7,500, $2,500 a corner, winner, of course, to take all.

Chicago Power Boat Club members are preparing for a busy summer. With what ex-Commodore Wiese calls "the armchair sailors," weeded out of the organization, the remaining sixty members, all of whom are boat owners, are looking forward to a season of good racing and renewed interest in the construction of speed and pleasing craft.

Six new boats are now under construction by members of the club which are expected to do much toward setting records in the west and attracting the attention of eastern racing enthusiasts, who are counted upon to travel west with their speed smashers before another season passes.

Ex-Commodore Wiese is building the Crusader II, having sold his Crusader I to Marvin Hughitt, Jr. The Crusader er II, will be three feet shorter than Wiese's first venture in the speed line, being only twenty-five feet in length. Crusader II, will be the narrowest boat in Chicago waters, being only three feet four inches in width. The old craft was four feet wide. Last season no boats were built on such narrow lines, but this year several makers in the east have narrowed their craft, and Wiese is the first western owner to follow their lead.

Walter J. Travis has more grim determination than half a dozen Napoleons. He says he will again compete for the American golf championship and believes that he still has enough ability to capture it once more. Travis has kept himself in good shape by playing on southern links, paying special attention to his "approach" game. He needs but little practice to remain at the top of the list of long drivers.

Whether Arthur E. Duffey, an amateur sprinter of international distinction and holder of world's records from 40 to 100 yards, will be allowed permanent Amateur Athletic union recognition for his remarkable cipher path achievements will not be known until Justice Fitzgerald of the New York supreme court passes legal judgment on the same.

Duffey and his counsel appeared in court recently in New York and asked Justice Fitzgerald for an injunction restraining the Amateur Athletic union from preventing the publication of his athletic records. Bartow S. Weeks represented the A. A. U. After listening to the arguments of counsel Justice Fitzgerald reserved his decision. The court action was the sequel to an alleged confession made by Duffey last October to the effect that he had been masquerading as an amateur since 1898. In the alleged statement he admitted competing for money and violating other rules to which amateur athletes are bound hard and fast.

Football Changes.

The Rule Calling For Ten Yard Gains—Question of Linup.

Changes of a radical nature will be effected by the new rules which have received the tentative recommendation of the American intercollegiate football rules committee, according to critics who have carefully thought out the possibilities of the game. One of the greatest of these, which will positively compel a style of game of the most open sort, is the rule calling for ten yards in three downs. Supplementing this, and increasing the necessity of playing an open game, is the rule putting everybody on side when the ball strikes the ground after a punt, though it is before being touched by an opponent.

Great possibilities are seen by the student of the gridiron sport in the changes offered in the rules, as amended at these sessions of the national committee. While certain modifications are included that to some do not appear either needed or feasible, the majority of the changes tend, according to the opinion of thoughtful critics, to not only overcome the objections of the radical reformists, but also save the game, and will give college athletes next season a sport fully the equal of, if not the superior to, the old style of football so popular with every university student.

Kicking will be at a premium, according to nearly all who have given the subject thought. This will materially alter the style of game, both on offense and defense. Probably the greatest change from the past will be seen in the lineup of the players, on the defensive, for the new conditions created by the change in style of game will necessitate a shifting of men to meet them. On offense the lineup probably will be practically the same, though the plays will be different.

With ten yards to cover in three downs a running game will have to be resorted to, for every coach and player knows that it is impossible to cover that distance in that number of downs on a bucking game, except against weaker teams. With the liberty given in the forward pass, the rule putting everybody on side when the ball strikes the ground before touching an opponent opens possibilities that are enticing to the close student.

Discussing the new angles that can already be seen from a cursory reading of the tentative rules, a former football leader says:

"To meet the new conditions, especially the frequency of the quarterback kick, which is going to take a prominent part in the future, I would place my men on defense in these positions:

"The center, guards, and tackles would remain where they are today, though slightly more separated, for it is no advantage to have them too close when the rules forbid locking knees or hands. The ends I would play wide in the old fashioned way, for end runs must be crowded in toward the tackles. About two yards behind the ends and outside of them I would place my two defensive halfbacks. These two men could render valuable assistance to the ends on runs and at the same time be in a position to accomplish something when the quarterback kick was made. That would really be the greatest change from present methods, but that quarterback kick must be provided for in my estimation. The quarterback would play behind the center rush, some five yards, and be the only man in what is now known as the secondary line. Far in the back field, as is done today, the fullback would be stationed. He must never come up close unless a runner has broken through the line with the ball, or otherwise a quick punt from the halfback's position might put the ball over his head, and the instant it strikes the ground it belongs to anybody.

"In this kind of football the defense cannot help but be materially weakened.

"On offense I do not now see the need for any radical departure from former methods of lining up the players, except in working out plays. What we now call 'trick' plays will, I believe, become regular football and the plunging style of game infrequent and uncommon. The forward pass, permitted behind the line of scrimmage only, will help some and will give the coach a chance to work up some intricate plays. It will mean hard work on the part of the players to become proficient in passing the ball cleanly and accurately, for the instant it is fumbled it goes to the opponent, and if it should happen to strike the ground before being touched it becomes anybody's ball.

"IT SAVED MY LIFE"

PRaise FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Just in Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctor for over two years steady and spent lots of money on medicines besides but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased, and I suffered much pain, with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, I became regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day.

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of an organ, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

For 35 years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Introduces the hero, Robert Warburton, a well-to-do West Point graduate on duty in Arizona. After being wounded by an Indian, he resigns his commission in the army and leaves for Europe.

CHAPTER II.—Introduces the heroine, Miss Betty Annesley, daughter of a retired army officer living near Washington. A beautiful girl, she is an American girl, whom Warburton has seen in Paris. She is snatched, and follows to New York. Scene introduction on board steamship.

CHAPTER III.—Upon reaching New York Warburton locates hotel in which the Annesleys are guests and dines there in order to see Miss Annesley. He is charged to see young Russian Count Karloff who met on steamer. Next morning Miss Annesley in dinner. Next morning the Count and the Annesleys had disappeared.

CHAPTER IV.—Warburton goes to Washington to visit his relatives, a married brother, who holds a government position, and a sister engaged to be married. He is charged to accompany family to ball at British embassy, but declines. Conceals a scheme to play a joke on his sister and sister-in-law.

CHAPTER V.—Warburton meets his sister's fiancé whom he had not seen for eight years. Sees the folks off for the embassy ball, and then proceeds to put his joke into effect. He disguises himself as a coachman and drives his sister and sister-in-law, who must return alone, from the embassy to their home.

CHAPTER VI.—Warburton in his disguise goes to British embassy and takes the place of his brother's coachman. He has been bribed. He mistakes his carriage number, and calls out the wrong passengers without knowing it. Drives frantically about the streets until he is arrested by police. When released, he goes to a hotel and throws his arms about the first of his passengers to alight, who proves to be Miss Annesley instead of his sister.

CHAPTER VII.—Warburton is arrested on a charge of drunkenness. He is taken to the police station and locked up over night. In police court, where he has given the name of James Osborne, the charge of drunkenness is withdrawn, but he is fined for drunkenness. Sends note to "Chuck," his old chum, telling of his trouble.

CHAPTER VIII.—"Chuck," takes suit of clothes and money to pay the fine to the jail, only to find that the fine has been paid. Warburton, in name of James Osborne, receives note from Miss Annesley, which he decides to accept. In spite of protests of his friend, whom he leaves to explain his disappearance to his relatives, he states that he has gone north suddenly on a hunting trip.

CHAPTER IX.—Miss Annesley, after closely questioning Warburton (known to her as James Osborne) at her home, writes him a letter, telling him to come to her. She shows about the stables expressed a desire to ride an exceptionally vicious thoroughbred called "Phantom." With Miss Annesley's permission, he saddles and mounts the horse which immediately bolts.

CHAPTER X.—After a fierce struggle Warburton succeeds in mastering "Phantom" in the presence of Miss Annesley but receives no word of praise. Interview between Col. Annesley and daughter in which he tells her that he has invited the young Russian Count Karloff to dine with them on the morrow.

CHAPTER XI.—Warburton assumes his duties as groom to Miss Annesley and meets the other servants, a French chef, a maid of the same nationality and a stable boy. Takes his first ride with Miss Annesley and is further questioned about his past.

CHAPTER XII.—The French chef gives Warburton lesson in serving at table as he is to act as butler at a dinner the next week. Miss Annesley gives him a shock when she orders him to drive her for a call on his sister. Fortunately he is not recognized by any of his relatives.

CHAPTER XIII.—Four days pass and Warburton becomes an accomplished butler; has met Count Karloff twice and has not been recognized. Miss Annesley notices that he has invited the young Russian Count Karloff to dine with them on the morrow.

CHAPTER XIV.—While driving Miss Annesley in the city Warburton meets his friend "Chuck," who gives him a moralizing, and also runs across the colonel of his old regiment who recognizes him but keeps his own counsel.

CHAPTER XV.—An account of the downfall of Col. Annesley, who previous to the opening of this story lost his own and his daughter's money at Monte Carlo. He is approached by the young Russian Count Karloff, who tempts him by showing how he can make $200,000 by betraying his country, by furnishing military secrets to Russia.

CHAPTER XVI.—Count Karloff and Mrs. Chadwick while preparing to go to Miss Annesley's dinner talk over the previous love affair between them, and of the Count's love for Miss Annesley, who has once refused his offer of marriage. Mrs. Chadwick, who still loves the count, notified him that she has the power to destroy his future prospects and to prevent his marriage to her friend.

CHAPTER XVII.—After some final instructions Warburton discharges the duties of groom to Miss Annesley. At dinner he attracts the attention of his former commanding officer, Col. Raleigh, who makes inquiries of the young man regarding his military and Annesley stories of his doings as a soldier.

CHAPTER XVIII.—After his duties as butler were over Warburton goes outside and stands under the bay window, listening to the music Miss Annesley is playing on the balcony in the moonlight, and after refusing another proposal from Count Karloff, she throws away a rose which she has been fondling. After she had returned to the house Warburton searches for and finds the flower, which he is surprised to find. Karloff, who demands an explanation of his conduct.

CHAPTER XIX.—Col. Raleigh accompanies Warburton to his room in the stable and listens to an account of his escape and of his love for Miss Annesley. The colonel decides not to expose the masquerade but gives him some friendly advice.

CHAPTER XX.—A stovepipe's timely fall and the consequent soot and dirt on Warburton's face serve as a disguise when his sister Nancy calls. Miss Annesley, while on a chance visit to the library Warburton discovers the fortification plans which Miss Annesley has drawn for her father. Spies a bed in night trying to determine upon his CHAPTER XXI.—Warburton drives Miss Annesley on a shopping expedition to the city and for a call on Mrs. Chadwick, who warns her girl friend against Karloff. Miss Annesley compels Warburton to drive up the rose she had thrown away on the night before.

CHAPTER XXII.—Dramatic scene in the Annesley home when Karloff calls the $200,000 to the colonel for the betrayal of his country by furnishing plans of her fortifications. Karloff demands the colonel's daughter on pain of exposing the plot. Miss Annesley overhears the words and pleads on her knees for mercy. Warburton appears at an opportune moment and throws packet of plans in fire.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Count Karloff after having his plans to force Miss Annesley to marry him defeated by Warburton, is forgiven by that lady and disappears.

In her eyes, as I have made myself in yours," bitterly.

"No, not ridiculous; never that!" she interrupted, her face still averted. He strode toward her hastily, and for a moment her heart almost ceased to beat. But all he did was to kneel at her feet and kiss the hem of her riding skirt. He rose hurriedly.

"God bless you, and good-by!" He knew that if he remained he would lose all control, crush her madly in his arms, and hurt her lips with his despairing kisses. He had not gone a dozen paces, when he heard her call pathetically. He stopped.

"Mr. Warburton, surely you are not going to leave me here alone with the horses?"

"Pardon me, I did not think! I am confused!" he blundered.

"You are modest, too." Why is it that, at the moment a woman succumbs to his embarrassment, a woman rises above her? "Come nearer," a command which he obeyed with some hesitation. "You have been a groom, a butler, all for the purpose of telling me that you love me. Listen. Love is like a pillar-based upon a dream; one by one we lay the stones of beauty, of courage, of faith, of honor, of steadfastness. We wake, and how the beautiful pillar tumbles about our ears! What right have you to build up your pillar upon a dream of me? What do you know of the real woman—for I have all the faults and vanities of the sex; what do you know of me? How do you know that I am not selfish; that I am constant; that I am worthy a man's loving?"

"Love is not like Justice, with a pair of scales, to weigh this or that. I do not ask why I love you; the knowledge is all I need. And you are not selfish, inconstant, and God knows that you are worth loving. As I said, I ask for nothing."

"On the other hand," she continued, "as if she had not heard his interpolation, 'I know you thoroughly. I have had evidence of your courage, your steadfastness, your unselfishness. Do not misunderstand me. I am proud that you love me. This love of yours which asks for no reward, only the right to confess, ought to make any man's life a joy."

"I understand the kind and generous impulse which prompted this deed. Oh, I admire it, and I say to you, God bless you! But don't you see how impossible it is? It can not be, no, no! My father and I are proud. What we owe we shall pay. Poverty to be accepted without protest, must be to accept debts of gratitude. But it was noble and great of you, and I knew that you intended to run away without ever letting any one know."

"Who told you?"

"No one. I guessed it."

"And he might have denied all knowledge of it!"

"Won't you—won't you let it be as it is? I have never done anything worth while before, and this has made me happy. Won't you let me do this? Only you need know. I am going away on Monday, and it will be years before I see Washington again. No one need ever know."

"It is impossible!"

"Why?"

She looked away. In her mind's eye she could see this man leading a troop through a snow-storm. How the wind roared! How the snow whirled and eddied about them, or suddenly blotted them from sight! But on and on, resolutely, courageously, hopefully he led them on to safety.

"He was speaking, and the picture dissolved."

"Won't you let it remain just as it is?" he pleaded.

Her head moved negatively, and once more she extended the note. He took it and slowly tore it into shreds. With it he was tearing up the dream and tossing it down the winds.

"The money will be placed to your credit at the bank on Monday. We can not accept such a gift from any one. You would not, I know. But always shall I treasure the impulse! It will give me courage in the future—when I am fighting alone."

"What are you going to do?"

"I am going to appear before the public," with assumed lightness; "and my violin."

"He struck his hands together. 'The stage!'"

"I must live," calmly.

"But a servant to public caprice?"

It ought, not to be! I realize that I can not force you to accept my gift, but this I shall do: I shall buy in the horses and give them back to you."

"You mustn't. I shall have no place to put them. Oh! With a gesture full of despair and unshed tears, 'why have you done all this? Why this mean masquerade, this submitting to the humiliations I have contrived for you, this act of generosity? Why?'"

Perhaps she knew the answers to her own questions, but womanlike, wanted to be told.

And at that moment, though I am not sure, I believe Warburton's guarding angel gave him some secret advice.

"You ask me why I have played the fool in the motley?"—finding the strength of his voice. "Why I have submitted in silence to your just humiliations? Why I have acted what you term generously? Do you mean to tell me that you have not guessed that riddle?"

She turned her delicate head aside and switched the grasses with her riding-crop.

"Well!"—flinging aside his cap which he had been holding in his hand "I will tell you. I wanted to be near you. I wanted to be, what you made me, your servant. It is the one great happiness that I have known. I have done all these things because—because, God help me, I love you! Yes, I love you, with every beat of my heart!"—lifting his head proudly. Upon his face love had put the hallowed seal. "Do not turn your head away, for my love is honest. I ask nothing, nothing; I expect nothing. I know that it is hopeless. What woman could love a man who has made himself ridiculous sible to hang around the horses in hopes of catching them in the act of talking over the affair among themselves. But I can easily imagine this bit of equine dialogue."

"Jane: Did you ever see such foolishness?"

"Dick: Never! And with all this good grass about!"

"Whatever did follow caused the girl to murmur: 'This is the lover I love; this is the lover I have been waiting for in my castle of romance. I am glad that I have lost all worldly things. I am glad, glad! When did you first learn that you loved me?'"

"(Old, very old; thousands of years old; and will grow to be many thousand years older. But from woman's lips it is the sweetest question man ever heard.)"

"At the Gare du Nord, in Paris; the first time I saw you."

"And you followed me across the ocean?"—wonderingly.

"And when did you first learn that you loved me?" he asked.

"(Oh the trite phrases of lovers' litany.)"

"When I saw you in the police-court. Mercy; what a scandal! I am to marry my butler!"

"Dick: That is better than weeping. Besides, they will probably walk us home. (Wise animal!)"

He was not only wise but prophetic. The lovers did walk the horses home. Hand in hand they came back along the road, through the flame and flush of the ripening year. The god of light burned in the far west, blending the brown earth with his crimson radiance, while the purple shadows of the approaching dusk grew larger and larger. The man turned.

"What a beautiful world it is!" he said.

"I begin to find it so," replied the girl, looking not at the world, but at him.

READY TO RUSH TROOPS EAST

Prices for Possible Transport Duty Obtained by Government.

Seattle, Wash., March 5.—The Great Northern Steamship company has been requested by the War Department to name a price for the chartering of the Minnesota and Dakota to be used as transports in case of hostilities with China. The company has replied, naming a price which is satisfactory. The situation in the Orient is becoming tense and the government is preparing for any emergency. Local Chinese deny the story that there was a split in the imperial high commission and that three members were left behind. They state that three members went to Portland to study the schools of Oregon and later California. They were following the Pekin plan and will join the main party in Washington.

SISTER IS SLAIN BY ACCIDENT

Fatal Results Follow Woman's Careless Handling of Revolver.

Gettysburg, Pa., March 5.—Mrs. Isaac H. Welkert accidentally shot and killed her sister, Miss Eliza Welkert, aged 35 years. Mrs. Welkert was examining a revolver which had been purchased by her husband, she supposing it was empty. In some manner it was discharged and a bullet entered Miss Welkert's brain. Mrs. Welkert is heartbroken over the affair and is in a serious condition.

MYSTERY IN MINE CONFERENCE

Hold a Secret Meeting.

Scranton, Pa., March 5.—Twenty-one independent anthracite coal operators met here Saturday in the office of W. L. Connelley. It is understood those present were pledged to secrecy as to what transpired. Immediately after the meeting Mr. Connelley went to Philadelphia, supposedly to confer with President Baer of the Reading company. All the independent operators were represented.

Home Health Club

By DAVID H. REEDER, Ph. D., M. D.
La Porte, Ind.

RHEUMATISM.

Since the first Home Health Club lectures were published, over seven years ago, I have several times discussed the subject of home treatment for rheumatism. All of the various methods described will apply, because rheumatism is a condition which manifests itself in many ways, and, although the general characteristics are the same in nearly all cases, yet as an individual condition it is seldom that two cases are alike.

It has been well said that nothing will make firmer friends of a couple of old confederate and union soldiers than to have a touch of the same kind of rheumatism. Anyone who suffers with rheumatism will probably sympathize with all other such sufferers and will also read with interest of the many simple home cures that have been from time to time given in my lectures.

I believe that I am correct in my idea that rheumatism can come from only one source, indigestion. The food, or at least a portion of it, remains too long in the alimentary canal. Fermentation takes place.

We all know that one of the natural results of fermentation is an acid. Now in various fermentation there is developed, or set free carbonic acid gas, while the souring of milk gives rise to lactic acid, acetous fermentations produce acetic acid, etc., etc. Is it not reasonable, therefore, and logical that the souring of urea, which is a natural but waste product of the normal being, should produce uric acid? Now uric acid is not a natural product of a healthy body and is not found in perfectly normal urine, but, as I said before, urea is a natural but waste product and comes from oxidation of the nitrogenous tissues, the waste or ashes, so to speak, of the body. We know what conditions are necessary to produce fermentation and we know that such conditions are present in people who sometimes say that they have perfect digestion but are terribly troubled with constipation, not knowing that the second statement flatly contradicts the first. When more food is eaten than is required by the system, improper combinations of food, or insufficient mastication, the condition is ripe for fermentation.

Now perhaps I have said enough about the original or predisposing cause of rheumatism, but sufficient to give you an idea where we must begin treatment if we wish to effect a cure. Live right, eat right, eat to live, not live to eat.

Let me tell you about a case of rheumatism that was cured in a manner which would, according to the popular idea of the causes of rheumatism, have caused a very bad case of it. A man who had suffered for years with rheumatism and was at that time suffering a little with rheumatic fever, was by accident confined in a damp building without food for five days. He had access to a clear spring of pure water which flowed from the cellar. He drank an abundance, and when liberated was in almost perfect physical condition. Not a trace of fever and not a rheumatic pain or ache.

I have frequently directed a diet limited strictly to dry toast and fresh buttermilk for a week. In the case of stout people, that is, people who have too much fat, the result is excellent. Not only will the fat disappear quite rapidly, but they will be stronger and free from rheumatism.

There are many kinds of simple home treatment of which I will gladly tell you more at some future time. For the present, to relieve acute rheumatic pains, adopt the hints I have just given you.

CLUB NOTES.

If J. H. Belding, Pleasanton, N. R. Washington, and Mrs. Charles, will write again, giving their name and address in full, I will take pleasure in answering their various inquiries. Be sure and state your address in full.

Oregon—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Sir: I have been going to write to you for a long time and thank you for all the good you have done me. My stomach is not bothering me any more, by just following your advice. Constipation was something I was almost dead with when I first read your lectures, but is now all right. I also wrote you about my nose getting sore at times, cold sores; it is all right now, thanks also to you. I also send a remedy for chilblains. It might be of value to some one. Put the feet in hot salmon pickles. I cured my feet that way, but I have heard that beef pickles are just as good. Wishing you a Happy New Year, I am, respectfully, Mrs. S. M.

A majority of the stomach troubles with which the human family are afflicted will yield quite readily to the simple, natural remedies advocated by the Home Health Club, and I am glad to have you not only tell me of your complete recovery from the various troubles with which you were so badly afflicted, but also to see that you want to help others, by telling them of a remedy for chilblains. Quite a number of formulas have now been given for chilblains, and I hope suffering may be relieved in every case.

Galva.—David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: I will now ask for advice, as I note your lectures in this paper, and it is with great anticipation that I await the coming of the paper which contains these lectures. I should like to get advice in regard to my deafness. I have now been troubled with it for several years; it rings and rumbles in my head. I have not only deafness in right ear, but for the time being am deaf in left ear also, for it seems that whenever I take cold it settles in my left ear. At times it runs, and then deafness will hang on for a couple of months. I consulted a doctor here, who said that no catarrh was to be found, but I think it is catarrh. Have been deaf in right ear since I was very young. If there is any cure to be found I would consider myself lucky. Ear does not always run; once it bled. I read in the paper about the use of vinegar, but as I do not know in what condition I am, I have not yet tried it. When I swallow it feels like slime fastened in throat. If there is any relief I would be thankful. Also desire to know if smoking causes deafness, and how to get rid of this trouble. Respectfully, Mrs. R. T.

Although the physician who examined you was probably correct in regard to there being no signs of acute catarrh at that time, yet I agree with you that your trouble has been caused by catarrh. It has now passed into a diseased condition which causes the discharge. The use of washes, or remedies to be applied from the outside will sometimes give relief and disinfest the ear, but I think such methods do not cure. I have written you privately as to certain kinds of tissue elements which you should use, and as you are undoubtedly familiar with these by this time, I feel certain that you will readily understand the value and importance of their use. Such simple, home remedies that are easily procurable and always harmless are best. While the one ear may not be greatly benefited, the discharge will be overcome and further damage to the other ear prevented. The same remedy will decidedly benefit your throat. Smoking will not necessarily cause deafness.

Idaho.—David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: * * * Now Doctor, I want to tell you what you have done for my son, James L., of Dayton, Wash. In the spring of 1896 he was sent to the Medical Lake hospital for the insane and at the end of about six months was discharged as cured. There were no important developments until two years since, when his health not being very good, he consulted you and you advised a course of treatment which included the hot blanket fomentation described in your lectures and other special treatment. I knew his health was not good, but did not know of your advice to him. That fall my wife's health failed so completely that she had to go to live with our oldest daughter, 100 miles away. This broke up the family and I went to live temporarily with another daughter near by. Late in December, 1903, we found James falling fast, and I went back home with him to the old home on January 8, 1904, and for the first time learned what your advice to him was. We began at once with the hot blanket fomentation every third night, making the water soapy, and carried out in full all of your instructions. He had fallen into the habit of brooding, and it is truly pitiful to hear him. He said he could not help it. I fully believed and do yet that he would speedily become insane if the treatment should not prove an immediate success. In two weeks I could see a decided improvement, and the brooding soon stopped.

I stayed with him until the last of April, when, believing him cured, I came here. His letters have been uniformly cheerful and the last one assures me he is all right. Gratefully yours, F. H.

It is very gratifying to know that James has been so greatly benefited by the suggestions which I made in regard to his treatment and I feel positive that he will continue in good health for many, many years. You should advise him, however, that if he feels, at any time, any return of the old trouble, he should not fail to write me about it.

Readers of this publication are at liberty to inquire for any information pertaining to the subject of health, and at any time. Address all communications to the Home Health Club, or Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind., with name and address in full and at least four cents in postage.

Things to Forget.

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's faults. Forget the temptations. Forget the fault-finding and give little thought to the cause which provoked it. Forget the peculiarities of your friends, and only remember the good points which make you fond of them. Forget all personal quarrels or stories you may have heard by accident, and which, if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they are. Blot out as far as possible all the disagreeable things of life; they will come, but they will grow larger when you remember them, and the constant thought of acts of meanness, or worse still, malice, will only tend to make you more familiar with them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday. Start out with a clean sheet for to-day, and write upon it for sweet memory's sake only those things which are lovely and lovable.—Detroit Free Press.

Sure Winner.

"Doctor, I am afraid that he'll die if you don't give him something that will stay on his stomach."

"All right, all right; try him with a porous plaster, and if that fails to stay 'phone me.'—Houston Post.

Monument to Clown.

A well-supported movement is on foot to erect a handsome monument to Joe Grimaldi, the clown, who died in 1837, and whose tombstone in the graveyard of St. James', Pentonville, London, is in a dilapidated condition. Grimaldi was the originator of the clown's slogan, "Here we are again!"

DAVIDSON WAITING HIS ANNOUNCEMENT

Will Enter His Campaign Work Immediately After the Spring Judicial Elections.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 5.—Immediately after the spring election Governor James O. Davidson will issue a lengthy announcement of his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor. Some weeks ago his private secretary, Senator O. C. Munson, gave out an authorized interview to the effect that Governor Davidson would be a candidate, but the formal announcement by the governor himself, it has been determined in conference, will be delayed until after the spring election. The reason for this delay is that by beginning his systematic work now, Governor Davidson could hardly avoid becoming involved in the various judicial and municipal campaigns, particularly that in Milwaukee, and he hopes to profit by holding aloof while some of the other candidates for governor, particularly Speaker Lenroot, of Superior, are mixing in the campaign for mayor of Milwaukee and other local fights. However, Governor Davidson is not idle by any means. He is daily receiving political callers while at the capitol, and for the past week has been meeting supporters in his home town, Soldiers Grove, and is getting in touch with the party leaders in the southwestern part of the state.

There are now three candidates in the field for the republican nomination for governor—Governor Davidson, Speaker Lenroot, and Senator J. J. McGillivray. W. D. Connor of Marshfield is considered to be a formidable aspirant and may announce himself shortly. Senator William H. Halten of New London, one of the chief authors of the Wisconsin railroad rate commission law, is also available, but will not assume large proportions as a candidate except it be as a compromise choice in the event of a hopeless deadlock among the present leaders in the race. Apparent unanimity as to the democratic gubernatorial nominee is shown in favor of Senator Ernst Merton of Waukesha. Three candidates have appeared for the republican nomination for secretary of state—Senator James A. Frear of Hudson, chairman of the legislative committee now investigating life insurance; Walter L. Houser of Mondovi, present secretary of state, and C. O. Marsh of Antigo, chief clerk of the legislative assembly.

JOY BRINGS DEATH TO FATHER OF GIRL BABY

Proud Parent Exhibits Offspring to Admiring Friends and Expires After Returning Babe to Mother.

New York, March 5.—Charles Davin, 168 East One Hundred and Twentieth street, figured out Friday that he was the happiest man in New York when his wife gave birth to a girl baby, the first child born in the Davin family. He was almost too happy. His friends warned him, but he only laughed and said: "You know joy seldom kills."

He arranged a little celebration for night, Sunday, and invited many friends to his house. There were six or seven married couples. Davin kept making trips from the room to the bedside of his wife. Along toward the middle of the evening the baby woke up and he brought her in, so every one could see how pretty she was when awake. She was duly admired and Davin carried her back to her mother. Coming back he stood in the middle of the room and said:

"You don't know how happy I feel. It's a great thing to be a father."

Then he started toward a chair. Before he had moved two steps he put his hands over his heart and gave a cry of pain. Then he fell. As his friends started toward him he died. Dr. Reid, who came from Harlem hospital, said it was "heart disease."

Come to See the Fashion Approved Fabrics for 1906

ONE day may hold more of interest than another among the dress goods and silks. Just at present, when shelves and counters are loading up with the newest things and before any lines are broken and depleted, we promise you a treat; first sight of the woolen and silk fabrics which fashion has firmly demanded.

There are radical style-changes, many departures from past modes, and our latest arrivals mark the changes clearly. We have been especially careful in buying to be sure that when style and weaving please you, durability shall not be lacking—that the wearing qualities of every yard of goods that passes over our counters shall thoroughly satisfy our customers.

It's just this sharp attention to detail in buying, the days we spend in going from manufacturer to manufacturer, searching and testing, refusing the inferior and accepting only the best, that has made our dress goods department a favorite in this city.

About prices!—they are right in every respect; that you'll find your money "going farther" than ever before—even at this store—so come, prepared to be surprised.

Better come soon!

Greys easily take first place among the favorites of fashion this season. Other popular colors are various shades of blue, brown, green, red. We mention only a few today.

36-inch Batiste Veiling, new pastel shades for evening wear, darker colors for home dresses, 50c.

36-in. Granite Cloth, all wool, all colors, 50c.

36-inch Serges, all wool, best made, all colors, 50c.

36-inch Mohair Sicilians, brown, green, gray, navy, red, black, quality extra; note the width, only 50c.

38-inch Panama, many colors, excellent for service, 50c.

44-inch Henrietta, all the old and new colors—red, wine, prune, Alice blue, navy, reseda green, olive green, brown—fine and weighty—$1.00.

40-inch Silkine Mohair, beautiful for shirt waist suits; light weight, silk finish, having silk look when made up; greens, blues, brown, black, $1.00.

56-inch cream wool Suitings in small even and broken checks are quite the thing; $2.00.

For street wear this spring very light weight suitings will be much in evidence. The late ideas are here in abundance.

THE "SLEEPING SICKNESS" IN STORES.

Illness is not merely the common inheritance of mortals—it attacks the institutions which mortals build up.

It comes not only to the man who is physically weak—but to the strong man as well.

It comes not only to the store where rent day is a perpetual dread—but to the strong store, where vigor is the rule.

THE SYMPTOMS.

Strong men pay less heed to the fore-warnings of an illness than does the half-invalid. It is the same with strong stores.

Bad buying—mistakes which are permitted to happen not only once but again and again; too much leniency with credit customers; little leaks in the store-purse; a good deal of "good-will" advertising—in programmes, etc.; a consequent curtailment of real advertising; a tendency to "leave out a link" now and then in the chain of advertising continuity; careless clerks, floor-managers with too much dignity for the comfort of customers, complaints grudgingly received and corrections of mistakes grudgingly made, the whole store-machinery creaking a little on its bearings—and "store-sickness" is at hand.

THE TREATMENT.

A little preacher once asked a big one what to do to prevent auditors from falling asleep. Mr. Beecher replied: "At Trinity Church the Sexton has his instructions on this point. Whenever he sees anyone falling asleep he is to go right up into the pulpit and wake up the minister."

The "sleeping sickness" in stores—and about every other kind of store-ailment, will respond to the same treatment.

AND WHEN THE PATIENT IS FULLY AWAKE HE WILL MERELY NEED LIBERAL AND CONTINUOUS DOSES OF PUBLICITY TONIC TO BUILD UP HIS SYSTEM AGAIN, AND TO PREVENT ANY RELAPSE.
